HKS, Inc.

HKS, Inc. is an accomplished architecture firm that designs unique living and work spaces for clients across the globe. With offices on four continents, they have a mission to act as “one firm,” connecting their people and clients in innovative ways, regardless of location.

Building a new HQ in Dallas was an important part of their plans for bringing teams together. Whitlock understood that this new space would serve as a linchpin for the firm’s overarching cultural and business goals. We helped them explore using video in new ways to engage and collaborate in pursuit of great building design.

This new facility includes video technologies seamlessly intertwined throughout. Whitlock integrated videoconferencing, interactive displays and 3-D visualization systems throughout the space, giving this HQ an IQ for delivering and capturing important information.
